Exploring Art in Learning, Discovering Art in Life: Artwork from Studio in a School

The Studio in a School Association is proud to present Exploring Art in Learning, Discovering Art in Life: Artwork from Studio in a School. This exhibition highlights the outstanding artistic achievements of students in our visual arts education programs. Installed at the Ziegfeld Ballroom in celebration of Studio's 45th Anniversary Gala, this exhibition features 100 artworks in-situ and more than 200 artworks projected digitally. Legacy artworks, preserved in Studio's permanent collection, are on view alongside more recent works, created during the 2021-2022 school year. Additionally, there are several large-scale murals and sculptures that were made in honor of this special occasion.

This exhibition brings together exceptional student artworks from Studio program sites in New York City and beyond. Since our founding in 1977, Studio has served children and teens from pre-school through twelfth grade in public schools and community-based organizations across all five boroughs of NYC. In 2016, Studio Institute expanded in-school programming to new cities. We are elated to include student artwork from Studio Institute's programs in Cleveland, Ohio, and Newark, New Jersey.

The artworks on view embody Studio's enduring pedagogy and the breadth of creativity across our programs. Working with Studio Artist Instructors, students observe, imagine, and interpret the people, places, and things that make up their lives. They begin by exploring their materials, discovering the capacities of each medium, and honing their technical and expressive skills. Throughout each unit of study, students engage in dialogue guided by open-ended prompts. They observe historical and contemporary artworks related to their lessons and share their discoveries. Through joining hands-on exploration with reflective dialogue, young artists are encouraged to internalize key concepts, which in turn, inform their artistic choices. Seen collectively, these artworks underscore the joy, curiosity, imagination, and promise of the city's next generation.

We are immensely grateful to Studio's Artist Instructors for their dedication, creativity, and kindness. Over the past four and a half decades, they have been the face of our programs. Our Artist Instructors created nurturing environments where countless youths have expressed themselves, taken creative risks, and explored their artistry to the fullest. Collaboration truly is integral to Studio's success, as evidenced by our Artist Instructors' consistent collaborations with our leadership. Together, they innovate and adapt programs to meet ever-evolving needs—all to ensure our students have the best arts education possible.

On Studio in a School Turning 45

Dear Friends,

When Studio in a School was founded in 1977, we knew it had a strong mission and would have a successful program. What Studio has achieved since then has far surpassed our dreams for it. Over the last 45 years, we've established the organization's foundation, grown its reach, and created a new division, Studio Institute, which has enabled us to expand our important work into other cities. Throughout all these years and accomplishments, we've worked to further secure a place for visual arts in classrooms and communities across New York City and beyond.

While I could argue for the importance of visual arts education with a myriad of studies, statistics, or anecdotes, I find that the best evidence of how children benefit from artmaking is seen in what they create. Exploring Art in Learning, Discovering Art in Life: Artwork from Studio in a School, is composed of student artworks that are bursting with exploration, imagination, and creativity. These artworks showcase students' skills and reflections, bringing to mind a classroom full of eager, engaged children turning what they see, think, feel, and imagine into art.

This exhibition feels especially remarkable when pausing to acknowledge that the works on view have been made possible by the countless hours that hundreds of dedicated Studio Artist Instructors have spent in the classroom leading students through enriching lessons over the past 45 years. This exhibition is a true culmination of all the effort and energy that our students, Artist Instructors, staff, partners and supporters have poured into Studio in a School. My gratitude for all who have contributed to our success is immense.

With Best Wishes,

Agnes Gund
