YOUNG VISIONS 2026

Student Artwork from Studio in a School
June 18-24, 2026 • Christie's New York

Studio in a School is proud to present Young Visions 2026, an exhibition of extraordinary work by artists aged 2-18. Each year, thousands of students in public schools across New York City create art with professional artist instructors during Studio in a School residencies. Students engage in the artistic process, building foundational skills in drawing, painting, collage, sculpture and printmaking. As they explore the expressive possibilities of line, shape, color and form, students learn to communicate their ideas and experiences in the language of art.

Letter from Dr. Hasna Muhammad, Board Chair

Young Visions, Studio in a School's annual year-end exhibition, celebrates the extraordinary creative achievements of our students. The artworks on view underscore the essential role of visual arts in a well-rounded education. Each of the more than 130 works featured in this exhibition is a testament to the depth, breadth, and impact of Studio's visual arts programs.

Throughout the school year, professional artists guided thousands of students across New York City in meaningful explorations of a wide range of materials, techniques, and artistic practices, helping them discover and develop their own creative voices. The works presented here reflect the confidence, curiosity, insight, and authenticity that flourished in our classrooms and studios.

This exhibition also stands as a tribute to the legacy and vision of our founder, Agnes Gund, who passed away last year. Affectionately known as Aggie, she believed deeply in the transformative power of art and turned that belief into action by founding Studio in a School. Her vision was simple yet profound: that every child should have access to a high-quality visual arts education and that professional artists should have meaningful opportunities to share their talents and expertise. Nearly 50 years later, more than 1.2 million young people have participated in Studio programs, a testament to the enduring impact of her leadership and generosity. While Aggie will be deeply missed, we remain committed to carrying her vision forward for generations to come.

On behalf of Studio in a School's Board of Directors, it is my great pleasure to congratulate our student artists and to thank the dedicated artist instructors who inspire them, the talented administrative staff who make these excellent programs possible, and the school and cultural partners who enrich our work in countless ways. This exhibition and the vibrant programs behind it would not be possible without their commitment, creativity, and collaboration.

We hope you enjoy Young Visions and celebrate with us the remarkable talent, imagination, and potential of the young artists whose work fills these galleries.

Enjoy!
Hasna Muhammad

About Studio in a School

Studio in a School's mission is grounded in a commitment to equity and access. Founded in 1977, when drastic budget cuts virtually eliminated the arts from New York City public schools, Studio emerged from a bold idea by founder Agnes Gund: restore visual arts instruction by placing professional artists in public school classrooms. This approach not only returned high-quality arts education to students, but also provided meaningful work for working artists, a model that remains central to Studio's work today.

In 2008, Studio expanded its impact to include career development for teens and college students through apprenticeships and internships in the arts. Over the decades, Studio in a School has partnered with hundreds of public schools and cultural institutions, serving more than 1.2 million students. Today, our programs reach nearly 30,000 young people each year in New York City and five cities nationwide.

In Appreciation of CHRISTIE'S

Studio in a School is deeply grateful for our longstanding partnership with Christie's New York, which has generously hosted Young Visions each year in its galleries at 20 Rockefeller Plaza. Through this collaboration, Christie's provides a prestigious platform for our students' artwork to be seen and celebrated by a broad audience. Beyond the exhibition, Christie's welcomes Studio students for gallery tours, offering them meaningful opportunities to engage with works of art, learn about the art world, and experience one of the world's leading auction houses firsthand. Christie's also extends the reach of student work through online presentations that further showcase the creativity and talent of Studio's young artists. We thank Christie's for its continued generosity and commitment to arts education, and we look forward to many more years of collaboration.

In Appreciation of our Supporters

Studio in a School receives generous support from foundations, government partners, corporations, our Board Members, and other individuals. Their support makes our work possible and ensure students in New York City and beyond have access to high-quality visual arts education and career opportunities in the arts. We are grateful for their contributions and partnership.

Students from P.S. 363M, working with Studio Artist Instructor Mildor Chevalier, visited Christie's NYC to explore its remarkable art collection and gain insight into the auction process.

Agnes Gund, 1938-2025

Young Visions 2026 is dedicated to the memory of our Founder, Agnes Gund, who dedicated her life to the transformative power of art.
